Dear families

We've reached the end of a busy term at Cottons Farm. On the 4th January, I don't think we could have predicted that we would be back to doing a mixture of in school and remote learning. I want to say a big thank you to the teachers who ensured that high quality work was available online for children who were not in school. They went over and above planning lessons and then recording themselves teach. Our TAs also played a huge part - being onsite everyday for the children who were in school. In fact, everyone in school played their part. The admin team ensured communication was clear and prompt, the site staff helped keep us safe by ensuring our school was extra clean and Mrs Gaskill supported families who needed it.

As well as our colleagues, I want to thank the parents who supported our online learning effort by ensuring that their children took part in the learning from home. It was lovely seeing pupils join us on teams for class get togethers and assemblies. Thanks for what you did and have a lovely Easter.

Beat the street

Today pupils will be getting a new map to allow them to take part in the beat the street activity - why not do it with your child over the Easter break and help Cottons Farm get to the top of the table!

Online Safety

Keeping children safe online has never been more important. Children are spending more time online and the risks online are just as real as in the real world.

I know as parents you will want to know how you can keep your children safe. You can login to the National Online Safety website with the link below. Once you login, there are courses suitable for parents of children of different age groups. Why not sign up and stay informed about online safety.
