Dear Families

We have been enjoying another #incredible week here at Cottons Farm.

This week we have been looking at our Science curriculum and ensuring that our pupils are getting a broad, knowledge rich and engaging offer. This is part of our much bigger focus on the curriculum in general. We were pleased with what we found in books and children are excited when you ask them about what they are learning. Why not ask your child what their project has been this half-term?

As a leadership group, we have been planning our next Book Week. As you know, reading is really important to us here so look out for a separate letter that will let you know what is happening during that week!

Have a lovely weekend - remember to keep reading
